COAL, COAL!
Agents for Johns Coal.
THE undersigned having been appointed Agents for the sale of the above Coal, would say to the citizens of Portland
Before you lay in your Winter's Coal, be sure and Try the Johns Coal.
This celebrated Coal has for years stood the highest for domestic use of any White Ash Coal mined. To preparation our quality it has always been kept up to the standard. If the Johns Coal suits once, it will always suit; because there is no mixture. This we claim as a particular advantage over other coals. Consumers by buying the Johns Coal will avoid the continued trouble and annoyance of getting every other year bad slate coal. Every one has had this trouble. Johns Coal we will warrant to suit in every case. We give a few reasons why the Johns Coal is the BEST.
First—It is the Purest White Ash Coal mined.
Second—It is the most Economical and gives the best heat.
Third—It will not clinker, and for durability and strength it is unsurpassed.
Fourth—It always comes the same.
We sell the Johns Coal at the same price as any other good White Ash Coal. We have for free-burning Coal,
DIAMOND AND LORBERY.
☞ For Furnaces and Parlor Stoves we shall see the Harleigh,
Hazelton and Sugar-Loaf Lehigh.
Also on hand Hard and Soft Wood.

Butter Making.

The season for making butter for winter's use will soon arrive, and a few hints in relation to the subject may not be out of place. Good butter is a luxury and always commands a good price, but poor butter is absolutely worse than none at all. It does seem strange to us that so much poor butter is made. There is no need of flooding the market with such stuff. It costs no more money, and a very little more time to make good sweet but ter than it does to manufacture a poor article. To make good butter does not require the exercise of immense brains, nor demand very profound philosophy. The work is not difficult nor obstruse. A little knowledge and care will carry the dairywoman safely through the work. True, a good foundation must first be laid, and good cows and a good pasturage form that foundation, and if a farm wife does not make good butter with these materials the fault lies at her own door. She must be either ignorant, or careless, or both.

Having good milk, the dairywoman must not "set it" in dirty pans, nor keep a dirty milkroom where flies and creeping things do love to congregate. If she does, the cream will become impregnated with disagreeable odors which will surely find their way into the butter. Again, the cream must not be kept too long even in a clean place, and if it is desirable to keep it a few days during warm weather, a teacup of salt to a gallon of cream, says one writer, is recommended. The salt may be placed in the crock first, or added after the first gallon is put in. As the quantity accumulates, add salt and agitate the mass several times a day until ready for churning. Cream treated in this way will obviate the necessity of using much salt when the butter is made, if desired for immediate use. The quality, however, will depend in some good degree on the manner in which the buttermilk is washed out. This work must be done thoroughly and faithfully. A little neglect here will produce much mischief. A writer in the N. W. Farmer says: There is no process of working or washing that will secure a good article of butter, or that will get all the buttermilk out, till it has stood a short time, when it must be washed the second time, after which it will keep a long time. Butter that has not been washed over the second time will not keep long in warm weather. I don't care how much pains you take with it, the buttermilk that is left in the butter becoming sour, makes your butter rancid."

The buttermilk that is too often left in butter makes a very unprofitable business for the dairywoman; for she does not get more than half price for her butter. Dealers who are good judges and consumers who are not ignorant, will not pay a very high price for butter that is streaky and traversed by rivulets of brine and buttermilk. We have seen such butter, and it afforded anything but a temptation to purchase it. The appearance of such butter is decidedly sickening and forcibly reminds one of a soap barrel. The milk that made this butter might have been excellent when drawn from the cows, but how shockingly it was wasted

IF IT IS NOT LYING, WHAT IS IT?

The Portsmouth Times said that Hon. John Lynch recently purchased certain wharf property, which the Custom House must have, and that he now seeks a reelection in order that he may engineer through the Congress a bill appropriating $600,000 for its purchase.

The Argus copied the Times statement.

John Lynch replied stating that

1st. He purchased the wharf property fifteen years ago, long before he dreamed of going to Congress.

2d. It is not necessary for the Custom House to have that property.

3d. He will sell the property for a slight advance on the $60,000 for which he purchased it fifteen years ago.

4th. If a bill were introduced in Congress making an appropriation for the purpose suggested he would vote against it.

In reply to this complete and conclusive statement of the facts the Times reiterates its former declaration. The Argus copies the reiterated lie.

This is a strong case, but there are numerous others just as bad.

Who will believe what a paper says when it has declared that every Republican Representative from Maine voted in favor of the copper tarift bill, when every one present when the vote was taken voted against it, and all the rest are notoriously opposed to it?

Who will believe a journal that arraigns Mr. Lynch for bringing about the repeal of the reciprocity treaty, when that action was taken in December, 1864, a year before he took his seat?

Who will believe a journal that arraigns a member of Congress for voting in favor of impeachment, "a revolutionary scheme that cost $100,000,000," when Johnson's trial did not cost $16,000 dollars?

It will be seen that the Democrats have applied their microscopes to Mr. Lynch's Congressional career and that they have in default of any discovery of wrong, error or corruption, put forth in succession four falsehoods of the basest and grossest character which have been instantly refuted in every particular. What next gentleman?

YARMOUTH.—The Republicans of Yarmouth will have a rare treat, Monday evening, when Senator Wilson will address them on the subject of taxation and the finances. They complain that Democratic speakers have dodged that issue.

The Great Republican Meeting in Bangor.

BANGOR, Aug. 27, 1868.

To the Editor of the Press:

To-day has been a gala day with us on account of the Grand Republican demonstration. Business has been almost entirely suspended and the day devoted to festivity and pleasure. Long before the hour arrived for forming the procession, the streets were filled with men, women and children, all attired in holiday apparel and displaying the Grant and Colfax badge. About 10 A. M. the delegations came pouring in from the country with flying banners and bands discoursing patriotic soul-stirring airs. A few minutes before twelve the Cambridge arrived with delegations from down river, and among its passengers were General Sickles and Senator Wilson, and the Chelsea Band, who were to participate in the celebration.

THE PROCESSION,

under the command of General White as Chief Marshal, assisted by a number of ex-army officers and civilians, as aids, was formed on Main street with the right resting at the Bangor House. At two o'clock, the appointed hour, the procession took up its line of march, the mounted truckmen with their neat uniform of white shirts and black pants having the right of the line, and carrying a banner with an inscription which evidently bespoke not only the sentiments of the organization but also of the whole of Penobscot County; it was

GRANT LIKES HORSES AND WE LIKE GRANT.

Immediately following the truckmen came the Chelsea Band, then the sailors and soldiers with their torn and tattered flags, and banners bearing the mottoes:

WE WILL "GO" FOR SEYMOUR AS WE WENT FOR LEE.

WE DEFEND IN PEACE WHAT WE WON IN WAR.

After the soldiers followed the Bangor Band in their new and beautiful uniforms; then the various Base Ball clubs and then Co. A, formerly the Light Infantry, in their showy uniforms and bear skin caps, and Co. B in regulation uniform. These companies presented a fine, soldierly appearance. Following them were the Bangor Ward Clubs and the County delegations, each stepping to the time of martial music. Every club and delgation bore its banner. Among the most conspicuous were the following:

Ward 3—GRANT U. S. PEACE.

Newport Club—
Seymour may riot
And Blair may roar
Grant will be Pilot
Four years more.

Ship mechanics from Brewer—WE WILL LAUNCH HORATIO UP SALT RIVER.

Ellsworth Grant Club—HANCOCK COUNTY ALWAYS TRUE.

Ward 7—THE RADICAL JAM HAS STARTED—LOOK OUT FOR THE DRIVE IN NOVEMBER.

Bangor Grant Club—"CLUBS" IN SEPTEMBER "SPADES" IN NOVEMBER.

Ward 6—HERE'S THE DRIVE THAT'S SURE TO COME—WITHOUT CANT-DOGS, WITHOUT RUM.

The actual number of those in the procession was 3163, as counted by a gentleman on the line of march and was 26 minutes passing a given point. Along the route the utmost enthusiasm was manifested; houses were decorated, and streets completely jammed. After having marched through the principal streets the procession moved to Davenport Square where it was dismissed.

THE MEETING

was more than a success; over 30,000 people being present. Several hours before the time appointed for the addresses the circus tent which had been raised to protect the speakers and people from the sun, was filled to overflowing with ladies; so that when the procession arrived it was found impossible to get a tenth part of the populace within its limits; consequently a stand was placed in the lot adjoining the Square. The meeting in the tent was called to order by Wm. P. Wingate, Esq., and Gen. Hersey chosen chairman, who on accepting the position made a brief though appropriate speech introducing Maj. Gen. Sickles whose appearance was greeted with 12 deafening cheers. Gen. Sickles made one of his brilliant speeches during which he was frequently interrupted by applause. He was followed by Senator Wilson of Massachusetts and several others. The outside meeting was called to order by Hon. Hannibal Hamlin who introduced Hon. Lucius Chandler of Norfolk, Va. He was followed by Ex. Gov. Hawley of Connecticut, and others.

FEATURES OF THE PROCESSION.

Among the noticable features were two barouches filled with veterans of 1812, fine, noble looking men, and evidently belonging to the upper class. They carried a banner with the inscription.

IN YOUTH PATRIOTIC, IN AGE UNDAUNTED.

Behind them in another barouche rode maimed and crippled soldiers a number of whom were natives of "Emerald Isle". They too bore a banner with the following truthful assertion:

THIS IS WHAT WE OWE TO THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

As they moved along the street more than one was heard to exclaim as the inscription was read "That's so!"

CONCLUSION.

To night meetings were held in Norumbega Hall and Davenport Square both places being completely filled and thousands of people turned away from both places. Gen. Hinks, a son of Maine, made a speech teeming with patriotism and argument. During his speech, Gen. Sickles made his appearance, and as he was assisted upon the stage, the whole audience with one common impulse, arose and greeted him with such tumultuous applause as never before greeted the crippled hero. At the close of Gen. Hinks' speech, Gen. Sickles was introduced and three cheers for the "one legged hero of Gettysburg" were proposed and given with a vehemence which could not be excelled. At the conclusion of his speech three cheers were proposed and given. Cresswell followed, and during his speech related an anecdote of McClellan, which was as follows: Mc captured 200 cows and not finding anything in the Constitution about cows—telegraphed to Lincoln to know if he should milk them. Lincoln replied "Suck 'em George, for you're the greatest calf in the nation. A LINCLON." Gov. Hawley and others followed.

The whole demonstration has been a success, not only in point of numbers, but also in enthusiasm, sobriety and good order. Hardly a half dozen inebriated persons could be seen in the streets; which was remarkable, even for temperance Maine. T. L. O.

The "Unterrified" Terrified!

The appalling intelligence sent from Bangor by the wires on Thursday night, has so terrified the Democracy here, that no one would guess their ages by their looks. It is astonishing how it antiquates these hard-heads to see the country going for Republican principles. It was just so in the war. Victory by land or sea, made them tremble as with an ague! When Grant forced Lee to capitulate, and the country was all ablaze at the defeat of the great Copperhead of the Rebels, they impotently "gnashed their teeth," and wept for the "lost cause."

So now, the march of the people in the cause of freedom, equality and Union, is working the same results. Such a looking set of poor pillacoddies, as appeared in the streets yesterday morning, after the reading the Press news from Bangor. The Argus didn't have the news. Not much. It hadn't time to inform its readers that THIRTY-FIVE THOUSAND people were in council in Bangor—and that the enthusiasm exceeded anything ever known in eastern Maine. The Pendleton flourish there, in comparison to this mighty movement is set down as the squeak of a penny whistle to the mighty onward sweep of Niagara. The man who made this forcible comparison is no fancy personage: but is a candidate for church membership in that blooming city.

But, if these individuals are so frightened at the thundering of the chariot wheels, as it is heard one hundred and fifty miles off, what will become of them when the glorious march of freemen reaches this city. Then indeed will they call upon the rock and mountains to hide them.

The Republicans of Maine are awake. The foolish prating of apathy on the one hand and tremendous excitement on the other, which Mr. Pendleton promises to peddle out in the West, is as obviously ridiculous as his financial schemes.

From this day, till the 14th of September, we trust the sturdy friends of the country will give these destructives as much as they need in this direction. A fortnight is a short time indeed to work for one's country, when that country is imperilled by efforts to load it with men and measures reeking with ruin.

This demonstration at Bangor is but the beginning of the end. It this news from afar has caused the knees of the Democracy to buckle beneath them, what will be the matter when Western Maine arouses and brings her sons by thousands and tens of thousands into council! As the most frightened man ever exhumed at Pompeii, was always supposed to be a Copperhead who had been attending a Republican meeting, so our brothers of that persuasion here who have had a foretaste of the triumph to come and now hear the chariots and horsemen afar, are said to resemble that recovered Pompeite in all the essential elements of supreme terror and a glance over the left shoulder as though it would be a great privilege if they could but get out of town.

Who is to Blame?

We are in debt, the Nation, the States, the cities ane towns, more than three billions of dollars. It is a formidable trouble. It costs toil and taxes to pay even the interest. But who is to blame for it? Do you, Messrs. Shaw and Pillsbury, think yourselves at liberty to stand as dispassionate critics and fault-finders over the situation? How came we in debt? The money has gone for soldiers' wages and pensions, for food, clothing, arms, ordnance, ships, teams, forage, and the vast waste of all wars. Wars are proverbially costly. Of this the Smart, Pillsbury mind should have had timely prescience. But you thought the little unpleasantness that ensued in the South after it was known Lincoln was elected was jolly; when State after State seceded from the Union, you admired their spirit; you even told them so. When your political friends undertook to assassinate Lincoln in Baltimore, a feat afterwards achieved at Washington, you actually chuckled with the anticipation that perhaps the sectional candidate would not be inaugurated. When Lincoln called for 75,000 men to put down the rebellion, the conspirators at Montgomery laughed inordinately, and you smirked your sympathy with them. You urged them on with encouragements and apologies to begin their devilish work. Some few of you got alarmed afterwards and thought the government ought to be supported, but as the war grew disastrous and wearisome, your old political prejudices returned and your hearts yearned for your brethren in gray in the camps. You did everything but risk your worthless necks in the trenches by their sides. After that you became constitutional Democrats of the Kentucky stamp, sticklers for State sovereignty and the resolutions of ninety-eight. Your plan of carrying on the war was the Kentuckian one of an armed neutrality. Your campaigns were never projected beyond the parade grounds of Washington. You sometimes doubted if you had a right to maintain a Federal army in a slave city; and could never be made to approve march ing through Maryland. The proper way was to conciliate the South by maintaining a large army on the north bank of the Potomac and keeping up its supplies of food and shoes, and particularly its etiquette and corps d'esprit. McClellan fulfilled your ideas of a military hero, and the more he didn't do, the more you hurrahed for him.

Afterwards you had a knot of friends in Congress to vote against every measure for raising supplies and for carrying on the war. What with the waste of life intrenching in the swamps and the constant fear of McClellen of being overpowered by the Rebels, whom his brave men were steadily whipping, men began to be called for in large numbers, you discouraged volunteering. When mainly by your croaking volunteering ceased and a draft became necessary, you rushed into all the town meetings AND PUT THE TOWNS IN DEBT FROM ONE HUNDRED TO FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS FOR EVERY MAN HIRED, not to save men, or exempt the people at large from military service, but for a choice between the man who had no heart for the war, and another man who would go if his family were provided for. When the draft at last came, you, Mr. Pillsbury, were writing frantic editorials, that provoked the Kingfield farmers to riot, and your confrere in disloyalty, Simpson, was sketching Lincoln as Genghis Khan bestride a pyramid of a million skulls.

When the government was compelled to stop specie payments and issue paper money, you opposed the policy, and then did and said and wrote what you could to depreciate the paper. As its depreciation progressed and the cost of recruiting, paying and feeding the army increased one hundred and two hundred per cent., you were as glad as when you supposed the mob would prevent the inauguration of Lincoln, for you reckoned the time would come the sooner, when the country, exhausted in its resources and credit, would be compelled to make base terms with the traitors.

Had you been able to keep your disloyal tongues still while treason was plotting from November 1860 till the next April, there would have been no war. Had you heartily co-operated in the war where it became the only alternative to separation, Mr. Seward's halcyon vision of its end in 60 days would have been fulfilled. But for your slow and questionable patriotism the currency would never have depreciated as much as it did, and the armies could have been filled and the war ended at half its actual cost.

So we are in debt, and must sacrifice and submit to taxation, and, depend upon it, for your responsibility of putting us in this predicament, we mean that this debt shall be paid, and what is more, that you shall pay your share of it.

Letter from New Hampshire.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 26, 1868.

To the Editor of the Press:

An unusual and very stirring interest is felt here in the Granite State in relation to the result of your election, which occurs in two weeks from next Monday. We have no fears of a defeat to the Republicans upon the 14th of next month, but it would be a sad thing for the best interests of the country if the Republicans of Maine should lose one or more of their Representatives in Congress, or suffer the majority for their State ticket to be less than it was last year, as in such an event, the rejoicings of the Democrats would be great all over the country; and especially so in the close States of Pennsylvania, Ohio, California, Connecticut, and several of the lately reconstructed Southern States. Indeed, in every one of the lately seceded States nothing can protect union men, white or colored, from the worst possible treatment, from now to the 3d of November, at the hands of rebel Democrats there, but the certainty that the defeat of the Democratic party on the 3d of November is sure.—The election in Maine will be every thing to union men South; and then it will have much to do with the result of four State elections which occur upon the 13th of October, viz: those of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa; and the elections in the last named States will settle the Presidential election of November 3d and if they settle it right the last 21 days of the contest will be peaceful days throughout the South.

In this State all is quiet, so far as our own matters interest us, but the day after your election we shall commence a smart contest in the Granite State, and the fifty days from that day to November 3d will be stirring days with us in every part of the State. The Republicans have no doubt but they can give Grant and Colfax 4,500 majority, in this little State, over Seymour and Blair, and after election our Democratic friends will see more(Seymour) and blare (Blair) less than they do now. We feel, to-day, a far greater interest in your election than we do in our own. We fought our battle last winter, and gave a record of our position on the 10th of March last; and we are 2,000 votes better to-day than we were on that day. The young men are mostly Republicans to-day, however they may have voted last March. They believe the party that opposed the secession war of 1861-5, will share the fate of the party that opposed the war of 1812-5; and they believe the war lasted two years longer and cost $1,600,000,000 more than it would have lasted and cost, had the entire North been united in its support. Again, the candid young men of Democratic parentage are disgusted with the policy adopted by the Democrats South, and approved by the Democrats North, of compelling the colored men South to vote as they bid them, or else give them no employment and compel them to leave their native homes, while the Republicans of the North do not thus proscribe the hundreds of thousands of poorly educated Irishmen, in the cities and manufacturing villages in the Northern and Western States, who vote the Democratic tickets.

If your people will give Gov. Chamberlain 20,000 majority on the the 14th of next month, over the Hon. Mr. Pillsbury, the Democratic nominee for Governor, it will virtually settle the Presidential question, and it will save a vast amount of sufferings, of crimes and murders in the Southern States, as well as settle the results of the elections in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, and secure to the Republicans nearly every electoral vote in the seven recently reconstructed Southern States, and keep all quiet in the non-reconstructed States of Virginia, Mississippi and Texas from this time until they shall accept reconstruction.

Business in the city is good; and our people are beginning to feel a strong desire to do something to secure a more direct connection with your city, through the agency of an extension of the Portland and Rochester railroad to Concord via Pittsfield, and then to continue the route west via Claremont, N. H., Windsoy, Vt., all the way to Chicago, Illinois, and of course to the Pacific Ocean. This route would secure, north of it, for Portland and the West, much profitable business to the advantage of the East and the West.

In what I have penned above of political matters I do but feebly express the deep feeling of the Republicans of New Hampshire in the result of your coming election, and every Maine voter who may be temporarily in this State the first of November will be urged home by our people to vote to save the country from riots, mobs and murders.

Faith Equal to Moving Mountains.

The Lawrence Sentinel considers the nomination of Mr. Shaw for Representative of the First District "as equivalent to an election." Mr. Shaw would like to see it in that light, and so would his friends. Mr. Shaw does not vault into the saddle quite so easily. There is a bold cavalier after him, who may not "send him many ten cents," but who will be likely to ply him with hot shot in the way of unanswerable arguments as to why the first district should not leave its principles which it has maintained so bravely for the last four years, and feed on husks with the swine.

State Politics.

S. S. Cox is coming to Maine. He will help the Republican cause more than Pendleton himself.

The Belfast Age says that Waldo county is waking up. It gives accounts of large Republican meetings in Liberty, Winterport, Lincolnville, Searsport, Stockton.

There is a flag in the village of Stroudwater, in the town of Westbrook, lately "flung to the breeze" with the names of Seymour and Blair, which never saw the light during the whole war, though it has been in the possession of a Democratic family for eleven years. The Republicans repeatedly tried to borrow it for use in celebrating Union victories, but it was not to be had for that purpose. Does this not justify us in asserting that the Stars and Bars and the Stars and Stripes with Seymour and Blair thereon are political equivalents?

Stillman Tarbox, last year Representative to the Legislature from Farmington, declines a re-election.

John M. Todd, of this city, will address the citizens of York county at various times and places to be hereafter announced.

The Biddeford Union and Journal publishes a letter from a North Berwick soldier who has hitherto been a Democrat, in which the writer declares that he connot longer support that disloyal faction. The letter is long and full of good points, and want of space alone deters us from publishing it.

Smart says he is going to kill his rooster after the campaign. Of course; we never knew one of Smart's chickens to survive an election.

Col. Smith of the Somerset Reporter and Hon. S. D. Lindsey are on the stump in Somerset county.

The Oxford Democrat says "the Democracy' in its low state of health, and suffering constitution, have nominated doctors in two of their Congressional Districts—Dr. Garcelon and Ladd."

The Republicans of Winthrop and adjoining towns held a very large ratification meeting Thursday night, and were addressed by Hon. James G. Blaine.

Political Notes.

The Montgomery Journal published at Crawfordsville, Ind., says: "Mr. Calloway Nosier, heretofore an influential Democrat of this county, has renounced the corruptions of that party, and declared his intention to support Grant and Colfax."

At Greensburg, Indiana, a regiment of 1200 Fighting Boys in Blue was organised on the 21st, and at Bedford, Lawrence County, one of 600. There will be at least 10,000 Fighting Boys assembled at Indianapolis on the 2d of September.

The Conservative Army and Navy Union of Washington, D. C., is dying out.

Senator Edmunds, of Vermont, met Hon. E. D. Rand, of Lisbon, in a joint debate at Newport, Vt., on Thursday.

In 1864, the Democracy of Chicago resolved that the then existing war was a failure. In 1868, at New York, they declared the present existing peace to be a failure, and seem anxious to have another fight.

General Sol. Meredith, of Indiana, famous as commander of the "Iron Brigade," last year inclined to Johnsonism, has come out like a true soldier, and taken the stump for General Grant.

Another prominent citizen of Boston who has been identified with the Democratic party, has recently announced his intention to vote for Grant and Colfax, and will soon take the stump and give his reasons for changing front.

Cincinnati papers report that the whole Johnson party in that city and county have gone over to Grant and Colfax, its organ announces itself as Republican, and the leaders do the same.

Gen. Schenck, of Ohio, has been unanimously re-nominated for Congress.

Test of Democracy.

The Argus with amusing simplicity, offers the following satisfactory evidence of the Democracy of General Rosecrans.

The Jocobins have been claiming that General Rosecrans is for their candidates, Grant and Coltax; but since he has been to consult with Lee, Beauregard and A. H. Stevens in regard to what should be the policy of our Government towards Mexico, their organs will drop him as they would a hot potato. The truth is, the General is a Conservative, a supporter of Seymour and Blair, and he is not afraid to consult able men of any section in regard to what policy may be most conducive to the interests and honor of the country.

It is really true that General Rosecrans has been in consultation with the leading rebels of the South "as to what should be the policy of our Government toward Mexico." No one will doubt that the General "is a Conservative and a supporter of Seymour and Blair."

Grant's Statesmanship.

MR. EDITOR:—The Argus has published Horatio Seymour's long letter of acceptance in contrast with the short letter of General Grant, to prove Seymour the ablest statesman.

Their candidate for Congress has written a much longer letter than Seymour, and of about the same character. Does not Shaw's letter prove him a greater statesman than Seymour? Shaw's messages as Mayor of Biddeford were longer than any ever written by Washington. Is not Shaw a greater than Washington? C. S. A.

THE GREAT "BUTCHER" AND HIS BOYS.—The Democratic papers amuse their readers, they think, by terming General Grant the "Great Butcher." It is fair to infer that in the esteem of these Democratic organs, the soldiers who fought under Grant are only "butcher boys.' The soldiers of Maine will be apt to remember the insult on election day. The butcher boys of Maine made a terrible smashing among the Rebels during the war. They will therefore be very likely to "go for" the house of Seymour and Blair in a style that will startle them as much as "the Great Butcher" startled Seymour's "friends" when they made their hasty skedaddadle from Richmond.

THE Argus is eloquent on the false statement that the poor men pay taxes, and the rich men don't! This will be news to the rich men of this city. Some of the heaviest of them train with the Democracy. This relief from taxation on account of their riches will make them grateful to the paper that first received the news. But the splendor of that dream will be dissipated about the first of September, when the assessors put forth that ugly looking column with about 2 1-2 per cent. assessment, 5 per cent off for cash.

FLAG RAISING AT BAR MILLS.—After the mass meeting at Bar Mills next Monday afternoon, there will be a Grant and Colfax flag raised.

State News.

ANDROSCOGGIN COUNTY.

The Lewiston Journal says Mr. George S. Smith, of Danville, well known to the watchmakers of New England, had a trunk stolen from the office of the Lafayette House, Lebanon, N. H., on the night of the 25th, containing about $1500 of watch makers' materials. It is thought the robber took the night train for Canada and made good his escape before the loss was discovered.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

The Brunswick Telegraph says the memorial window for the chancel of St. Paul's Church in that town, has just been set up. It is designed in excellent taste, bearing appropriate religious emblems, and has upon a scroll at the base—"IN MEMORY OF GEORGE BURGESS, FIRST BISHOP OF MAINE." The colors of the glass are rich, and the combinations are artistically made.

We learn from the Brunswick Telegraph that on Friday of last week a son of Master Joseph C. Given, aged 12 years, of New Meadows, was riding upon a hay-rack, leaning against one of the slats set opposite a wheel. This slat gave way, letting the little fellow fall upon the the wheel, and his legs became entangled with the spokes. Before he was released, he had the bone of one thigh badly fractured. At last accounts he was doing well.

KENNEBEC COUNTY.

The Winthrop Bulletin says a young lady employed in the carding room of the woolen mill in that town, accidentally caught her right hand in the cards while oiling the machinery. Her hand was drawn in until the machine was stopped, and will probably have to be amputated.

OXFORD COUNTY.

The work of taking up the rails on the Portland and Oxford Central Railroad has been stopped by an injunction from the Supreme Court, says the Lewiston Journal.

PENOBSCOT COUNTY.

The twenty-first session of the Penobscot Musical Association commences in Bangor September 29, under the direction of Prof. L. O. Emerson, of Boston,—continuing four days.

In the trial, at Bangor, of the indictment against Charles H. Monk, for the alleged murder of Annis Q. Kenney at Dixmont in April last, a verdict of "not guilty" was rendered.—It was evidently regarded by the jury as a case of homicide, or self-defence, says the Whig.

YORK COUNTY.

We learn from the Biddeford Union that a barn belonging to Mr. Moses Pray of Lebanon, was struck by lightning recently. The building was considerably shattered, but fortunately was not set on fire. Mr. Pray received a severe shock, and was insensible for some time, but recovered.

A child belonging to Leonard Hanscom of Kittery, fell into the Piscataqua Wednesday evening, and would have been drowned had not Mr. Hanscom arrived on the spot as the child was about to sink the last time.

The Biddeford Union says Ansel Runnels aged 14 years, son of Mr. Eli Runnels, of Acton, was fatally injured by a fall from a height of over thirty feet, breaking a leg in two places and fracturing his skull. He died Monday morning.

BRILLIANT REPUBLICAN DEMONSTRATION.

GRANT AND COLFAX WARD CLUBS.

TORCH LIGHT PROCESSION.

Seven Grant and Coltax Flags Thrown to the Breeze.

IMMENSE ENTHUSIASM.

The display made by the Republicans of this city last evening on the occasion of raising several flags, was the most spirited one we have had in this city since 1860. It was got up at short notice—only one day—and was the most enthusiastic demonstrations we have yet had in this city. Had it been a Democratic demonstration, our neighbors of the Argus would have set down the procession at 2500, and the crowd that followed at 15,000. But there were not quite so many. The procession numbered about 700, and would have been much larger but for the non-arrival of uniforms for three of the Ward Clubs.

Major A. M. Benson acted as Chief Marshal, assisted by Messrs. F. Harris, B. F. Whitney and J. C. Small, as Aids. The route was commenced from Ward Seven, by the Grant and Colfax Club of that Ward, which, accompanied by the Forest City Band, marched down to Ward Six, where the Club of that Ward joined them. They then marched to Lancaster Hall, where the Club of Ward Five fell in, and also that of Ward Four. Proceeding to the head of Market street, the Club of Ward Three joined in, and at the Ward Room of Ward Two, the Club of that Ward filed in.

Marching to Munjoy, they were met by the Club of Ward One and the Republican Artillery with a Continental Band, and the route was continued to the Engine House above the Observatory, where the first flag was thrown out amid the cheers of the crowd, and to the music of the band. Then to St. Lawrence, Atlantic, Boyd and Franklin streets, where flags were raised amid the greatest enthusiasm.

The procession then proceeded to Union street, where a beautiful fl

WASHINGTON.

THE WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS CABAL.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—There continues to be much speculation here regarding the assemblage of rebels at White Sulphur Springs, Va., and the part which General Rosecrans has taken in their meetings. There can be no longer any doubt that their ostensible object is to make electioneering capital for their favorites, Seymour and Blair, and by issuing an address full of hypocritical protestations of devotion to the Union, to influence the votes of Northern men, and at the same time encourage their friends at the South. Their real object of meeting at the Springs in such numbers may be something worse. The statements which have been given, that Rosecrans went to the Springs only for his health, are found to be mere excuses, as also the reports that he went in the interest of some railroads with which he is connected. He is now en route to this city, and has in possession certain papers which will be duly made public as soon as they have been "vised" by the leaders of the campaign, in order to prevent injudicious publication. The General is expected here this evening.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—It is stated that General Rosecrans addressed a letter to General Lee on the affairs of the country, and requested a written expression of the latter's views of the best plan of restoring good feeling. General Lee responded, expressing a reverence for the Constitution, and a desire for the complete union of the States, as of old, and a belief that his desire was shared by the mass of the reflecting people of the South. The South, Lee says, is anxious for peace and a peaceful administration of the Government. Also, that the Southern people will treat the colored people kindly and humanely, if left to themselves. He emphatically deplores the attempt to commit the destinies of the South to the colored people, before they are prepared for such a responsibility, and considers such an attempt fraught with misfortunes and calamities, and with destruction also to the negroes themselves. His letter is endorsed by Beauregard, Stevens and Stuart.

INDIAN AFFAIRS.

The Indian Bureau has received advices from Superintendent Murphy dated at Chison, Kansas, Aug. 22. He says he fully concurs in the views expressed in Agent Wynkoop's letter, that inocent Indians who are trying to keep in good faith with their treaty pledges, should be protected, while he earnestly recommends that the Indians who have committed the recent gross outrages be turned over to the military authorities, and that they be severely punished. In view of the importance of the case, I earnestly recommend that Mr. Wynkoop be furnished promptly with the views of the Department, and that full instructions be given him for his future action. He suggests that he be empowered to take Indians whom he knows to be guiltless of the depredations committed on the Sabine river, and who are desirous of remaining at peace, and locate them with their lodges and families at some good point which he may select in the vicinity of Fort Larned, and let those Indians be subsisted entirely by the Government until this trouble is over, and be kept within certain bonds, and let him be furnished with a small batallion of United States troops for the purpose of protecting them from their own people, and from being forced into a war. Let those who refuse to respond to his call to come within the bounds prescribed, be considered at war, and let them be properly treated. By this means if war takes place—which he considers inevitable—there will be ability to discriminate between those who deserve punishment and those who do not.

THE VISIT OF GEN. ROSECRANS TO WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS.

General Rosecrans returned to Washington this evening and resumed his quarters at Willard's Hotel. Much anxiety having been expressed in regard to the object of his visit to Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, he was soon after his arrival here asked various questions on that subject, all of which he answered readily and frankly. His responses showed that his purposes had been mistaed in some of the letters furnished to the press by correspondents at the Springs, while in others, there was to say the least, exaggerated accounts concerning him, so far from his having been sent thither on a political mission, he having acted in conformity with the advice of his friends after consultation with them. The visit was of his own conception, and undertaken for his own personal satisfaction, to ascertain from representative men of the Southern States, whether there were any obstacles in way of peace between that section of the country and the North. He was satisfied that the power which organized and sustained the Confederacy for four years against the gigantic efforts of the United States to suppress the rebellion could exercise great influence in restoring peace, order and stability everywhere, and at the same time promote all the material interests of the country. He was received by Gen Lee and other prominent Southern soldiers with marked cordiality; in all their personal conversations they were frank and unreserved, and their conversations were mainly with reference to advancing the interests irrespective of the causes which for a time divided the North and South, and which resulted in the reconstruction acts of Congress.

Gen. Rosecrans says his visit was satisfactory, that the temper and tone of those Southerners was worthy of patriotic appreciation, and that there is no authority for the statements that he intends to issue an address signed with those with whom he has been in contact. His visit was for the purpose of ascertailing for himself their feelings and views. He does not know that any publication from him is required or may become necessary. The propriety of any such course rests exclusively with himself.

Gen. Rosecrans, after receiving further instructions from the State Department, will leave Washington for Brown County, Ohio, to see his family.

SETTLERS FOR VIRGINIA.

The Richmond Whig of to-day says: Some odd persons, originally from Holland, but more recently from Michigan, where there is a large Dutch settlement, arrived in this city yesterday, on their way to Amelia County, where they will purchase lands already set apart for them, and settle. This is the fruit of negotiations that we have heretofore spoken of between the Rev. Mr. Van Roal and Gen. Imboden, and is but the beginning of what we may expect in the same way.

INDIAN MATTERS.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28.—A Denver dispatch says the Cheyenne and Arrapahoe Indians are still committing depredations and murdering inoffensive settlers in central and Eastern Colorado. On Tuesday they attacked Rio station on Smoky Hill. A man was surprised by five Indians and scalped, and brought into hospital where he died. The Indians drove off 30 horses. Another band is reported having driven off a large number of horses two miles west of Cheyenne. Gen. Wessets sent the cavalry in pursuit, but nothing definite had been heard from them.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The coroner's inquest upon the remains of the victims of the recent terrible calamity at Abergyle, Wales, was commenced in that town to-day. A woman named Dickens, living near the spot where the disaster occurred, and who saw the accident, deposed that she went to assist persons in the burning cars, and that some might have been saved but for the fact that aid was refused.

Mr. Little, the Company's agent, disregarded the statement of the witness. He thought it impossible for any one to go near the fire. He asked the issuance of writs to bring Casler, Rosse and others, who were on board the train, to testify before the jury, which were granted.

Mr. Townsend and Mr. Howe, who were passengers on the train, testified that at the time the fire broke out in the goods van, they were unable to see a yard ahead, and that they left the scene unaware that any deaths had occurred. The inquest had adjourned until to-morrow.

LONDON, Aug. 28—Evening.—An immense meeting of the cabmen was held to-night. But few cabs were to be seen in the streets, which presented an unusually solitary appearance. The meeting resolved to issue a protest against the conduct of the railroad companies, and that a partial strike should begin at once, which is to become general if the terms demanded are not granted in a week.

COMMERCIAL.

New York Stock and Money Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Money very easy at 3@5 per cent. on call, but the probable early resumption of the shipments of currency to the West is likely soon to harden the market; prime discounts 6@7 per cent. The failure of an old established silk house in the dry goods trade is announced. Sterling Exchange dull and heavy at 108½@109 for prime. Commercial bills scarce and even lower rates are anticipated should the firmness in Gold continue. Gold opened at 145½, declining to 144½, advanced to 145¼, and closed at 144¾@144½. The steady drain into the Treasury for customs begins to tell on the rates on loans; the weakness of Exchange, however, checks operations for a rise. Governments active and a shade firmer; 6's are scarce, the market having been over-sold in anticipation of a return of bonds from Europe, and are considerably higher; sales as high as 115. Henry Clewes & Co. furnish the following 4.30 quotations:—Coupon 6's 1881, 114½@114¾; do 5's 1862, 114¼@114½; do 1864 109¾@110; do 1865, 111¼@111½; do new, 108¾@108½; do 1867, 108½@108¾; do 1868, 108¼@108½; 10-40's, 108½@108¾.

Border State bonds firmer; Missouri's, 91½; old Tennessee's, 64; new do, 63@63½; old North Carolina's, 72@73; new do, 72; old Virginia's 53@55; new do, 54

Stock market opened dull and weak and closed strong. The feature of the day was Michigan Southern, which advanced 2 per cent. on the rumor of an early consolidation with Cleveland and Toledo.—Rock Island, Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and St. Paul are higher, but not active; N. Y. Central quiet and steady; Erie dull and heavy. Boston Boot and Shoe Market.

BOSTON, Aug. 27.

There is more movement noticeable in the Boot and Shoe trade this week than for the two preceding ones. In prices the market continues steady with rather more firmness as the demand increases, stock on hand, of the heavy lines, decreases. At present, the prospect for trade next month is good, and manufacturers of light and medium work are fully engaged on orders, leaving but few of the more desirable kinds to be placed on sale; but, as we have before remarked, a short supply of any line which can be made by machinery is of short duration. Hand made work is in the most active request, and if wanted before November orders cannot be too soon given for the goods, especially as the prices have more of an upward tendency than otherwise at this time, particularly for goods made of imported stock, which advances in price with that of Gold. The clearances of Boots for the week have been 29,149 cases.—[Shoe and Leather Reporter.

There were many common Cattle that were not exactly what butchers wanted, but were obliged to buy as the supply from the West was light. Common lots ranged higher than last week.

Sheep—There has been a good demand for Sheep and Lambs that changed hands at full ₱ lb. advance. The larger portion of the supplies of the Vermont Central train were bought on their way to market; quality did not as good as last week, with less that were very slim. The advance may be accounted for, as butchers sell in proportion two head where they used to sell one.

Poultry—The market continues good; prices as high as last week We noticed a few head of large Turkeys from New York. As near as ascertained, the arrivals Tuesday and Thursday amounted to 5000 lbs.

Remarks—Last week the market closed dull and several hundred Cattle remained unsold. This week the trade is better and prices upon the best grades have advanced nearly, if not quite, $1 ₱ cwt. The Cattle which were left over were sold on Monday at prices lower than could have been obtained for them if they had been kept until to-day. The supply from the West was light, and a large portion of them were taken at a commission. Most of the Cattle from Maine were working oxen, for which there was a good demand.

Working Oxen—There was a good supply in market and an ordinary demand. We quote sales at $180, $150, $185, $165, $175, $195, $200, $210@315 ₱ pair.

Milch Cows—Ordinary $55@80; extra $85@110 ₱ head. Prices of Milch Cows depend a great deal upon the fancy of the purchaser.

Selected Story.

CHARITY.

A Story that begins at Home, and Ends There.

"And now abideth Faith, Hope, Charity. but the greatest of these is Charity."

It is a hopeful sign in a young man, when his meditations on heavenly virtues are so deep and earnest as to cause him almost unconsciously to repeat aloud to himself passages of Holy Writ, as did Dr. Norton, riding slowly home in his sulky, one clear June afternoon, the above quoted verse. But when we confide to you that he had just come from well-to-do Earmer Abbott's, whose three blooming daughters were severally named Faith, Hope, and Charity, it may reasonably be doubted whether the handsome young doctor's meditations were as much on heavenly virtues as on earthly.

It was rather a pretty tableau that he interrupted when he stepped into the Abbotts' cozy sitting-room, that afternoon, and somehow its memory haunted him still. The wheels of his light sulky made no noise as they rolled over the grassy lawn in front of the house, and with all the freedom of intimate acquaintance he sprang lightly to the steps, then in through the open door, without knocking, and was thus in their midst before they knew him to be anywhere near. Now Charity, the youngest of the sisterly trio had that very day purchased a pair of new, gaiter boots, and at the very moment when he darkened the doorway, was exhibiting them for the opinion of her mother and sisters. So there she stood in the middle of the room, her dress raised just far enough to show the trim boots, a little strip of snowy stocking, and, above all, the faintest suspicion of dimity ruffling. Down went the dress, however, when she suddenly saw her trio of spectators changed to a quartette, and up, up to the very verge of her brown hair, mounted the rosy blushes; but the burst of laughter from her mother and sisters at her discomfiture, roused her to composure. "I'd like to know your opinion on my new boots, Dr. Norton," said the little puss, saucily, walking up to him, determined to face it bravely out, and thrusting forward one dainty foot.

"Hum, well," said the doctor, with as much gravity as though he were pronouncing on a case of malignant typhus, "let us see. Cloth, but that's no objection if you'll always remember your rubbers in the damp. Heel rather too high; if I were a cobbler I'd take off a half inch of that, but perhaps you'll stand it if you've been used to that sort of thing. Don't pinch anywhere, do they? Consumption soled? No, as I live, good, honest, half-inch soles! I think they'll do, Miss Charity."

"What is your consultation fee?" said Charity, gravely pulling out a neat portmonnaie.

"Five dollars is so important a case as this," replied the doctor subsiding into a cozy rocking chair, "but don't pay me the money, I'll take this chair for a few moments, and a glass of water, and call it even;" so Charity went for the water. When she came in with it, he was just making known his errand.

"I've been to see old Mrs. Wells. She is very low, won't last much longer, but the family are all worn out, and I agreed to send a watcher for to-night. So I called to see if one of you ladies wouldn't go."

"I can't, I'm sure," said Mrs. Abbott, promptly. I haven't been able to watch for years, but one of the girls could go." I shouldn't like to go into such a place, said Faith, "they are so poor and everything seems so disagreeable there;" and her handsome face expressed such lofty disdain that for a moment Dr. Norton felt quite ashamed that he had ever made such a suggestion to one so gracefully fastidious.

"I should be really afraid to go," and Hope raised her soft, blue eyes, timidly to him. "What if the poor creature should die in the night!" Hope Abbott looked just what she was, a gentle, confiding girl, and we must pardon our young hero, if the thought did pass through his head, what a pleasure it would be to cherish and protect one so lovely all his life.

"All go," said Charity, quietly, "I'm not afraid, and if the place is disagreeable I can endure it for one night. Even if the poor creature should die, I can call the family." "Yes, certainly," said the outer Dr. Norton, while the inner man was saying, "Most sensible of the three sisters! Behold true Charity!" "I'm very glad to have found a suitable watcher for the night, and also much obliged to you, Miss Charity," said he, as he took his leave a few moments after. "The family will tell you all about the medicines and drinks, and I shall be over myself in the morning, unless I hear of her death previously.—Keep up good courage, and take good care of yourself. Good day." And with a wave of his hand to the whole family, he whirled away in a cloud of dust, the noble, prepossessing young doctor, whom half the girls were breaking their hearts for, but who, as they indignantly averred, seemed to have not the least bit of a heart to give anybody except his patients, to whom he made himself very dear, no matter who they were, or how old and repulsive. His breakneck pace, however, subsided into a slow walk as he rode up the hill beyond, and it was then that he ejaculated the quotation which leads this story.

That evening, just at sunset, Charity Abbott went leisurely down the meadow path, across lots from her pretty home to the humble cottage of the Wells family. The grass waved and surged about in the evening breeze, a sea of billowy green, gemmed with tall, nodding buttercups. The delicious breath from the crimson clover on the hillside came wafted to her like purest incense, and a little further on, a faint, delicate odor from the lowlands told of strawberries ripening to luscious sweetness down among the rank grass and weeds. The bobolinks nodded their saucy black caps at her as they followed along in friendly proximity, trilling forth meanwhile their untelligible jargon, rich and clear in its silvery sweetness and thus attended, she traversed slowly the long meadow path, drinking in at every step the beauties of earth and sky and cloud. Down, the little hill which hid her home from view then through a huge gate which opened a little way with its creaking sweep, to let through her agile form, then around the corner of a field of rye, already standing stout and tall, and she entered a little pine grove. The breeze was whispering and sighing in the waving branches, making a sweet, pensive music which chimed in pleasantly with her thoughts so attuned to nature's harmony, and she lingered in the charming grove a little, pleased with everything, even the soft, brown carpet which the fallen needles made under her feet. Regarding it then, and not till then, she noticed that she had on her new gaiters. Provoking! The morning dew would nearly spoil their beauty, but it was not worth while to go clear back home again, so, resolving to make the best of it, she passed on out at the bars, and down a little piece of dusty road to the brown little house which was her destination.

The soft, clear, summer night passed slowly away, the patient watcher moving quietly about, doing all that sympathy could prompt for the poor old woman now so nearly beyond the reach of her gentle ministrations. With a touch as tender as though the invalid were a dear friend, she chafed the aged limbs smoothed back the snowy hair from the wrinkled face, and bathed the aching head. Unwearied were her attentions, and much were they needed by the worn sufferer, until toward morning they took effect, and she sank away into a quiet, peaceful sleep. Still Charity sat by the bedside, driving away with her fan the villainous musquitoes that persisted in annoying her charge, at the same time creating with it fresh currents of air for the comfort of the sufferer, whose lungs were well nigh wasted away.

At sunrise the family were up, and Charity was released from her post. glad to go forth in the fresh morning air, after her wearisome night.

The fresh rays of the morning sun shone full in Dr. Norton's face, rousing him from a night of unusually quiet and undisturbed sleep, To visit old Mrs. Wells was his first thought, and he made a hasty toilette and started out. A sudden determingtion seized him to go across the fields on foot, instead of taking his horse to go around by the road, which was twice as far. The morning air was so invigorating that he felt as if the walk would be a decided benefit, so he struck into the path across the pasture, which, at the rye field, came into the path Charity traversed the evening before, and walked briskly on.

Mindful of the well-being of her new gaiters, Charity picked her way carefully along the road, wetting them in the dewy grass when she tried to avoid the dust, and covering them with dirt when she tried to avoid the dew by taking the middle of the road. Once in the shadow of the pines, she paused to look at them in disgust, when a brilliant thought struck her. Why not doff shoes and stockings and go home barefoot? It was so warm and pleasant, and the path smooth and soft. There was no danger of meeting any one, and she could slip in unobserved at the back door at home, so that even her watchful mother need not know it. To plan was to execute with this active young lady, and seating herself on a fallen tree trunk by the path, she quickly bared her feet, rolled the snowy stockings into a snug ball which she put into her pocket, lightly knotted together the strings to her gaiters so she might hang them over her arm, then rose and went bravely onward, congratulating herself on her brilliant idea. Alas, for the frailty of human calculations! Out of the pine woods, along by the edge of the thrifty rye, and there was Dr. Norton himself just coming around the corner, and within ten yards of meeting her, palpably and undisguisedly barefoot as she was, with her skirts caught up to avoid the dew, and her new gaiters carefully hung over her arm!

It was a trying moment for Charity Abbott, and all sorts of wild thoughts careered through her mind at once, though she still kept on her way, since it was too late for concealment. Yesterday's blushes when he caught her exhibiting her gaiters were as white roses to peonies compared with the burning red which suffused her cheeks and forehead, and even crimsoned her shell-like ears. That he should think her so careful and penurious as to save her new gaiters at the expense of her feet—her confusion was altogether overwhelming. What thoughts passed through his mind we will not pretend to say, but it is certain he then and there discovered that he was fully in love with the girl before him, whom hitherto he had thought he only half loved. So careful, and withal so modest a girl as her blushes betokened her to be, could but make a prudent, faithful wife. The impulse of the moment came over him, and he yielded to it, so that when they at last met and he took her hand to say "Good morning," he looked frankly into her clear eyes, and said instead, in a quiet, resolute way, "Charity Abbott, will you be my wife?"

Charity's answer is not on record, but we are told that not many months after, she bought for herself a pair of snowy satin slippers and that her feet were shod with them, as she stood dressed in pure white by Dr. Norton's side in her father's large parlor, while the gray-haired minister said to them some very solemn words—from all of which we infer that her answer at that embarassing moment was not especially discouraging.
